

Comment Via E-mail From Barbara Collins, Energy Rated Homes

A fairly minor suggestion - EPA has added some language about hydronic equipment that would benefit from editing to clarify that water heaters can be used for combo space and water heating. Many multi-family dwellings use a water heater, not a boiler, to provide both.

Suggested:

In homes with oil or gas hydronic equipment, domestic water heating must be provided by the space heating boiler (tankless) appliance.