I would suggest that you allow laboratories who participate in the Underwriters Laboratory Client Test Data Program to participate as qualified Energy Star testing labs. The UL requirements qualify a labs compliance with the relevant ISO standards and are audited independently by UL to ensure the procedures and personal are qualified.

While the lab employees are directly compensated by the parent company this compensation is not directly tied to the financial performance of the company. The lab staff is paid based on individual performance alone. I believe this satisfies the requirements set forth in draft that was circulated.

Thanks,
