

TUV Rheinland of North America, Inc. Comments

Hello,

As a Certification Body we would like to provide some comments. TUV Rheinland does feel that this category and specification would still be important for AV Products going forward. Traditional devices like consumer power amplifiers, receivers, AV processors will still be available. Digital players and streamers are quickly becoming popular and replacing disc-based players. Computer based music players, headphone amplifiers are also a popular product type.

Best Regards,

Chan