State Spotlights

"In a very dynamic construction environment, we are steadfast in valuing our alliance with ENERGY STAR® and continue to dedicate our efforts to address today's demand for ENERGY STAR-certified lighting products that provide enhanced functionality, security, safety and possibly improve health and wellness. We remain committed to educating customers and communities about the environmental benefits of using ENERGY STAR-certified products." - Glenn Siegel, Director of Marketing Connected Residential, Cooper Lighting Solutions of Peachtree City, Georgia.

"The ENERGY STAR® label provides a recognizable level of distinction in a competitive housing market. The positive impacts created by the certified homes program has generated new client opportunities and a means by which to do our part to ensure a healthy and happy environment for future generations." - Bruce Bennett, Principal, Building Energy Services, GDS Associates - Home Energy Ratings of New England of Marietta, Georgia.

Hoshizaki America, Inc., a commercial food service equipment manufacturer, launched a refrigeration line targeting the low-cost foodservice equipment market, 75 percent of which are ENERGY STAR certified models, redesigned 12 ENERGY STAR undercounter refrigerators, and taught over 5,000 retailers and distributors about the value of ENERGY STAR.
