

Kevin W. Houser, PhD, PE, FIES, LC

Professor of Architectural Engineering
The Pennsylvania State University

Editor-in-Chief
LEUKOS, the journal of the Illuminating Engineering Society

Dr. Houser is a Professor of Architectural Engineering at Penn State and the editor-in-chief of LEUKOS, the journal of the Illuminating Engineering Society (IES). In the past he was a founding faculty member of the Architectural Engineering program at the University of Nebraska and Manager of Lighting Education at Philips Lighting. He is a licensed Professional Engineer, Lighting Certified by NCQLP, and a Fellow of IES. He was formerly on the Board of Directors for IES, IALD, and the Nuckolls Fund for Lighting Education. He is a current board member of Lux Pacifica and a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of Architectural Lighting. He is one of four editors of the 10th edition IES Lighting Handbook, for which he and the other editors received 2011 IES Presidential Awards. He has published more than 40 papers in refereed journals, and has contributed to more than 85 other publications that include conference proceedings, editorials, trade magazine articles, IES technical documents, and other outlets. His publications were recognized by IES with the 2005, 2011, and 2013 Taylor Technical Talent Award, and by the Chartered Institution of Building Service Engineers with the 2005 Leon Gaster Award.