DEFINITIONS

Television (TV): A commercially available electronic product designed primarily for the display and reception of audiovisual signals from terrestrial, cable, satellite, Internet Protocol TV (IPTV), or other transmission of analog and/or digital signals, consisting of a tuner/receiver and a display encased in a single housing. The product usually relies upon a cathode-ray tube (CRT), liquid crystal display (LCD), plasma display, or other display device.

Direct-View TV: A type of TV whose display device emits light either directly from the screen surface or transmits light from a source mounted directly behind the screen. Examples include CRT, LCD, and plasma display technologies.

Rear-Projection TV: A type of TV in which the display device is a projector that focuses images onto a screen located within the housing of the TV.

TV Combination Unit: A system in which the TV and an additional device(s) (e.g., DVD player, HDD, VCR, etc.) are combined into a single unit and which meets all of the following criteria: the additional device(s) is included in the television casing; it is not possible to measure the power requirements of the two (or more) components separately without removal of the television casing; and the system is connected to the wall outlet through a single power cable.

EPA plans to use the data only for program evaluations. EPA will release this information only as aggregated data and only to the extent required by law.

The public reporting and recordkeeping burden for this collection of information is estimated to average 6.69 hours per response.
