

Email received on April 29, 2011 from David Shiller.

Dear EPA/ICFI/ENERGY STAR,

MaxLite supports the industry-consensus comments compiled and submitted by the National Electrical Manufacturers Association (NEMA), with one exception: MaxLite opposes the inclusion of CCFL into the scope of the Integral Lamp specification. Just as HID run up time doesn't meet ENERGY STAR requirements, neither will CCFL, and no exception to run up time should be made for either technology.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the Framework Document.

Best regards,
David

